BITTER COLD AND SNOW STRIKES COUNTY

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

About the only thing seen and heard this morning was the snow.

The fairly heavy rain last night and the continuing snow today may put the finishing touches on the big fire still burning at the Outland Loose Leaf Floor.

We drove by the ruins late Sunday and a lone fireman was on duty. It was cold too and a 55 gallon drum was employed as a furnace to keep him warm.

Still smoking and burning were stacks of cartons and baskets of tobacco. Takes a lot of water to stop the smoldering so maybe the weather of last night and today will do the trick.

We are not used to snow drifts in this part of the country, but we had them this morning. Stopped out the front door and snow went over our shoes and we figured it must be that way everywhere. Found that the north wind and drifted the snow however and generally the snow was about two inches deep.

A foot high drift in the alley next to the office, with the center of the windswept alley clear. The drift was on the north side of the alley.

Leon Grogan reported that the school buses this morning just couldn't be moved. The county schools did not meet. College High is served by buses but was open anyway for the students who could get there.

Needless to say, the attendance was cut by half.

The inside dog does not take to cold weather too well. We opened the door to let her out and she got one snuff of the 7 degree cold and took off for the back part of the house. We felt like doing the same thing.

The college will offer some courses in the Spring semester for business people.

Most anyone can take the courses offered, either for credit or without.

The courses will appeal particularly to folks who have time for it, maybe to some housewives who have the time, and to business people to help them conduct their business in a better way.

Principles of selling, small business management, beginning type-writing, industrial electronics are four which might appeal to the business man. Landscape gardening would be educational as well as the beginning French course which will be taught by Mrs. Lillian Lowry.

All of the above courses require no prior knowledge and would be good for someone who wants to better themselves or to further an avocation.

Programs like the above comprise a good public relations outlet for the college and will build support and at the same time render a real service to the surrounding area.

Europe Caught In New Arctic Cold Onslaught

LONDON (UPI) — The British Isles and most of Europe—already gripped by a month-long arctic cold wave—reel today under a fresh onslaught of snow, ice and fog.

A state of emergency has been declared in Bulgaria because of devastating snowfalls which have blocked all main roads and thoroughfares, Radio Sofia said today.

The radio said committees are being formed all over Bulgaria to clear roads and highways to prevent ground transportation from coming to a complete halt.

A fuel shortage in many countries threatened to pile new miseries on winter-weary Europeans. Even the British royal family felt the shortages. All electric supplies to Buckingham Palace were cut off for eight minutes today. A spokesman for the London Electricity Board said the "cut was just one of a number we had to make as part of this morning's reduction."

Princess Anne, 11, was the only member of the family in the palace. Queen Elizabeth and other members of the royal family are at Sandringham Castle.

Snow has been falling in the Soviet Crimea and the freezing weather is spreading along the Black-Sea coast of the Caucasus.

Severe frosts were reported from the Ukraine with sub-zero weather reported in Kiev and Odessa.

The mercury plunged to four degrees below zero in Moscow.

Red China Progress On Bomb Slowed By Withdrawal Russ Aid

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Red China's progress toward becoming a nuclear power has been considerably slowed down by the withdrawal of all Soviet help, authoritative sources said today.

Until the ideological conflict developed between the two giants of communism, Russia was aiding Communist China in nuclear research for peaceful — if not military — purposes.

Now, even this small assistance has stopped.

All Soviet-supplied nuclear reactors have remained, however, and it is largely, if not exclusively with their help, that Red China apparently has been producing sufficient uranium to date to work up some nuclear device nearing the experimental stage.

But authoritative sources here agree with U.S. experts that it will be some time yet before Red China has an "operational" nuclear bomb, and many more years before she can muster the vehicles to deliver the deterrent.

These conclusions are based on latest available information to reach here through the Bamboo Curtain.

The analysis of available information to date suggests, the sources said, that Red China has been working for a long time on the nuclear problem and continues to do so.

But whether Peiping is hurrying the issue as a first rate priority is a matter for conjecture. Some experts doubt it.

Constitutionality Of Junk Yard Act Is Upheld In Court

By JOSEPH VARILLA

United Press International

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — The constitutionality of the controversial Junkyard Act was upheld today by Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs. He said it was a legitimate exercise of the legislative police power.

The act, passed by the 1962 General Assembly, prohibits the operation of a junkyard within 2,500 feet of the center line of any road unless the owner has a permit from the Department of Highways.

It provides that the permit would be issued only if the junkyard is hidden by either natural or artificial means.

The act was challenged by a group of eastern Kentucky junkyard owners who contended that it gave the highway commissioner arbitrary authority over their property. They said the junkyards were "innocent and harmless."

Judge Explains Ruling
But in upholding the act, Meigs wrote:

"In order to sustain a statute enacted under the authority of legislative police power it must only appear that its provisions have some substantial tendency to benefit the public."

"The benefit to be derived from the enactment of the statute is primarily a question for the determination of the legislature, and its determination will not be set aside unless it manifestly appears to be arbitrary or oppressive and not based upon substantial grounds."

He indicated that the act met such a test and said he was unable to find that it does not have a substantial tendency to benefit the public. He said it appeared neither oppressive nor arbitrary.

Legislature Must Decide
Meigs also noted that when it comes to exercising the police power it is up to the legislature

Christian County
Coach Resigns Job

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Christian County High School basketball coach John Rendek, 34, submitted his resignation to the Christian County School Board Tuesday, but said if the board refused it, he "would feel there was sufficient support for its withdrawal."

Rendek said he would continue as coach until the board acts on his resignation, but asked that the action be "immediate."

The coach was called on the carpet by the board at a closed-door meeting last Friday night after he had dismissed a starting player, senior forward Billy Ledford from the squad for disciplinary reasons.

Rendek listed the following reasons for his resignations:

- The manner in which he was escorted to last Friday's board meeting which he said "placed him in an embarrassing light with the student body and the public."
- After the Friday night victory over Beaver Dam, the team carried Rendek on its shoulders, off the court and to the board meeting.
- He said he was given "no moral support" by members of the board and was allowed to be called a liar several times.
- The problem which led to the meeting last week remains unsolved with the result that the degree of which confidence in his position as coach was hurt remains uncorrected."

"This squabbling is hurting the team," Rendek added.

An estimated 300 persons gathered at the gymnasium Tuesday to protest the board's action against the coach and demand a public apology for Rendek.

Principal I. Fred Porter supported Rendek's action and said he was "very displeased" by Rendek's being forced to resign over the board's action.

"The board may experience some difficulty in finding a new coach, many new teachers—and a new principal," he said Tuesday in a radio interview.

One teacher, Jack Smith, already has resigned, giving as his reason, "similar incidents such as the one Friday night," which he said he considered a breach of professional ethics.

Supt. T. W. Stewart was in Louisville Tuesday and was not immediately available for comment. Rendek came to Christian County in 1959 and his team has been the district champions nearly every year. His 1961 team reached the state High School Basketball Tournament.

Ninety Three Lose Drivers License In Calloway In 1962

Ninety three persons lost their driver's license in Calloway County in 1962 according to figures prepared by the Division of Driver Licensing in the Department of Public Safety.

Fifty-two of these were mandatory, 28 on account of accidents, 28 because of the accumulation of points under the point system.

On the point system, points are marked up against a driver when arrested for certain traffic violations. If he acquires 12 points, then his license is suspended for a period of six months.

In accidents where there is a death or injury and where the property damage is at least $100 and the driver fails to show financial responsibility or fails to report the accident to state police, the license is suspended.

In the state as a whole, drunken driving accounted for most of the license suspensions.

Thermometer Hovers Above 0° Today; Low Minus 12 Forecast

The Arctic wave moved into Calloway County last night on the heels of a fairly balmy day. By nightfall yesterday a odd warmth was felt in Murray and a steady rain started falling about 10:00 p.m.

Sometime during the night the cold wave moved in with a "deep freeze" effect and turned the rain into sleet. Streets and highways froze over and snow started to fall as the mercury dropped to a bone chilling 6 above zero.

Calloway citizens woke this morning to find snow on the ground and a heavy snow falling. John Ed Scott, who has the official weather station here in Murray reported a high yesterday of 48 degrees, a low of six yesterday and a reading of 6 above this morning at 7:00 o'clock.

At 7:00 this morning a reading of 1.2 inches of snow was recorded, however by 9:00 the snow was easily two inches in depth.

A low tonight of six degrees below zero is forecast and no let up in the snow is seen.

Motorists this morning moved at a snail like pace to avoid accidents, and a large number of "white outs" were seen.

Driving in the area is reported as hazardous and motorists are urged to be especially careful in driving.

All schools served by school buses were closed today because of the heavy covered county roads. The night shortly after 10:00 the mercury dropped 12 degrees in thirty minutes. At the time the temperature in Murray was about 46, a freezing rain was falling in Paducah while it was just raining here.

This morning between eight and nine o'clock the mercury dropped several degrees also. The high for today has been forecast as ten degrees.

By United Press International
A new blizzard swept through the Midwest today, dropping the mercury far below zero, stacking up new snow from Denver to New York and creating huge ice gorges in the Mississippi River.

The 'Ideal Freshman Girl' is Truly Represented By This Year's Choice, Andrea Sykes

The old adage that beauties are not blessed with intelligence just doesn't hold true in this modern age. An example of the pretty and talented miss of today is Andrea Sykes, "Ideal Freshman Girl" for 1963.

Andrea was chosen from a group of 15 freshman girls by a committee of dormitory-council members, dormitory-staff members, and faculty members. The selection was made on the basis of high-school and college activities, grade standing, and comments from her professors.

While attending Murray High School, Andrea was a member of the glee club, Tri-Hi-Y, the school paper and the annual staff, student council, Quill and Scroll, and the National Honor Society.

She was also attendant to "Miss Murray High" her senior year. Even with such a busy schedule, Andrea maintained a 92.4 grade standing.

Besides being chosen the "Ideal Freshman Girl," Andrea is freshman representative on the Student Organization, and was nominated for "Shield Queen" by the Shield staff.

"I was thrilled and really excited," commented Andrea on winning the coveted honor of being chosen as "Ideal Freshman." She was presented at the Wells, Ordway, and Woods Hall Christmas parties by last year's "Ideal Freshman Girl," Lana Trice, sophomore, Kevil.

She received a silver charm bracelet with a disk inscribed with her name and "Ideal Freshman Girl, 1963."

Andrea is majoring in psychology and may follow a career in social work. One of her reasons for being interested in other people and why we act and do the things we do. Among her hobbies and interests Andrea lists playing the piano, cooking, dancing, and "I like to meet people and talk to people."

Andrea Sykes represents the ideal freshman girl, excelling in achievement, scholarship, leadership, and personality.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 264 Northerners didn't let their hearts be hardened against all British because of aid given the Rebels by the British government. They sent aid to English sufferers from the blockade of Southern ports.

Disturbed cotton supplies forced various English mills to run half-time or shut down altogether by the end of 1862. The resultant unemployment brought hunger to thousands.

Pitiful cries of distress that reverberated overseas moved many to express their anger against Britain for outfitting such raiders as the Alabama and Florida for the Confederate navy. A chartered merchant ship, George Griswold, was loaded at New York with flour, meat, and other edibles contributed for starving idle mill workers.

Paradoxically, the Union had to send a war vessel to protect the George Griswold from the Rebel raiders preying on shipping in and out of New York.

'The Unvanquished' Tells of Violence In Civil War Chaos

Reviewed by Shirley Hanson

In "The Unvanquished" William Faulkner gives a magnificent account of the Sartoris family, who lives with violence in order to survive during the chaos of the Civil War.

In this romantic piece of work, the Nobel Prize-winning author tells the story of Bayar Sartoris' victory.

Bayard, the hero, makes his first appearance in the novel at the age of 12 when he fires at a Union soldier, then hides from his punishment in Granny Millard's skirts.

Throughout the fast moving novel Bayard is shown growing older. At the age of 24 he faces his greatest test.

Raymond shoots Colonel Sartoris, who goes unarmed in repudiation of violence. The people expect Bayard to perpetuate the code of revenge. Although the young hero had been well trained in killing, he decides that there has been enough bloodshed during the war. He finds the wisdom and courage to face the enemy alone and unarmed.

Bayard accomplishes his triumph of character partly because of Granny Millard's ethical training.

"This magnificent novel also reveals Faulkner's creed: Man is tough. Nothing—war, grief, hopelessness, despair—can last as long as man himself can last; man himself will prevail over all his anguishes, provided he make the effort to stand erect on his own feet by believing in hope and in his own toughness and endurance."

Demonstration Work Praised By South Murray Club

The following is an article written by the publicity chairman of the South Murray Homemakers Club.

Why have a home demonstration agent? Listed below are a few good reasons why the work of the home demonstration agent is important.

In the lesson on "Facts and Fads in Food and Medicine" for January the program brought basic nutritional information that will help the homemaker, but providing the best food for her family within the limits of her resources, help her to understand the basic nutritional requirements for all members of her family, how to provide these nutrients through good preparation and preservation, help her to supply these foods needed through budgeting whether from the corner grocery, her pantry, or her garden.

The lesson in February will be on "Breakfast." Attend a February meeting to learn what home economics tell what one sets the easy in the day, why one should eat breakfast, and why one should start the day with or without food.

One of the lessons is to be on "Sewing." Not only can you learn to sew a straight seam, but you could learn the skill in construction, planning, remodeling, reworking of clothes and furnishings.

The extension work gives opportunities for the homemaker to learn and to grow through leadership so that she can serve her community to the best of her ability.

Bald Eagle Is Subject To Heart Attacks

By DELOS SMITH

UPI Science Editor NEW YORK (UPI) - Even the bald eagle, symbol of the nation's might, is subject to the typical "heart attack" of American men. This accidental discovery raises a fundamental question for science. Just how many of nature's creatures are candidates for this catastrophe?

Until now the known candidates were confined to mammalian species. Since people do the killing, man was first on the list. Then came the dog, the ape, the bull, the horse and the rat.

The chicken is subject to some of the preliminary vascular disorders but what they lead to is unknown.

This one adult bald eagle became a contributor to scientific knowledge because medically minded persons happened to be watching when it keeled over. It happened on a Wisconsin state game preserve and the unconscious bird was taken to Wisconsin State College at Eau Claire.

It died the next day and in the interest of science an autopsy was clearly indicated. Dr. Carl S. Schmidt, the college's principal biologist, called in Dr. Willard Aronson, director of laboratory medicine at Eau Claire's Luther Hospital.

Contains infarctions The eagle heart contained myocardial infarctions typical of those which make heart disease the No. 1 killer of human beings, especially men. These are segments of dead tissue in heart muscle caused by a block or blockage in blood flow.

In the human heart these blocks occur usually in arteries which have been narrowed by "hardening." But the eagle arteries showed no sign of hardening and no accumulation of the fatty substances, such as cholesterol, which are blamed for artery-hardening.

What had happened was that the cells lining the eagle heart arteries had proliferated irregularly but in a number of places. These contributed to a block which resulted in the infarctions which caused death.

There was no sign of inflammatory reactions in heart tissue and no sign of a start toward a reorganization of blood flow. From all this Dr. Aronson concluded, in his report to a technical organ of the American Medical Association, that the eagle had had the fatal "heart attack" typical of human victims - but had had no intimation of impending disaster.

Blocks in Veins The spots of dead heart muscle tissue called infarcts can be produced by blocks in the veins which take blood from the muscle as well as in the arteries, which bring blood in. Aronson noted impairments in the eagle veins which he believed complicated the arterial troubles.

He remarked that medical literature contains little information concerning blocks in human veins, and suggested these veins should be investigated carefully. They may complicate human heart disease more than is now believed.
